Snap-Loc Systems

Cedaberg Snap-Loc Coolant Hose Systems serve metalworking industries worldwide. The 3-dimensional flexibility and holding power of the design serves well in a wide range of applications.

- ✓ Adjustable Length and Interchangeable components with easy hand assembly
- ✓ Heavy-Duty Construction Industrial grade wall thickness provides durable parts with long lasting performance.
- ✓ Bearing Surface & Snap Fit Contribute to outstanding performance with respect to "jetting" and holding power. Snap-Loc Systems are designed for normal shop air and fluid pressures.
- ✓ Solid Hex Design This solid hex design is superior to a ribbed design because it has less tendency to strip.
- ✓ Durable Thread Design Cedarberg Snap-Loc Systems have milled, not turned, threads. This results in better starting threads, and less cross threading. Threads are easier to re-use.

Working Pressures:

Snap-Loc Systems components are designed for normal shop air and fluid pressures. They are not intended for high pressure applications. Maximum operating pressure is dependent upon many factors, including temperature of solution, hose and nozzle size, and whether pressure is induced slowly or instantaneously.

Chemical Resistance:

Delrin exhibits superior chemical resistance to alcohols, aldehydes, esters, ethers, hydrocarbons (gasolines, lubricants, hydraulic fluid), agricultural chemicals, many weak acids and bases.

Polypropylene provides good chemical resistance to a wide variety of chemical products, including alkalies, solvents, as well as acids.

Working Temperatures:

Maximum recommended working Temperature for Snap-Loc Systems is approximately 200° F (93°C)

Materials:

Standard Snap-Loc Hose and Connector material is Delrin. Standard Nozzle material is polypropylene. Consult factory for alternate material availability.

Interchangeable Components:

Snap-Loc components are interchangeable; Reducers are available for 1/2" to 1/4" hose, allowing for the use of all three hose sizes in a single installation.
